

- A soaring atrium
- Outdoor and indoor classrooms
- Community meeting spaces
- Commercial kitchen
- Concession stand
- New parking and access to the Trail

We can better display our collection of over 500 bird and animal specimens, with space for special exhibits. With a separate 150-seat multi-purpose room, meetings and classes can be held concurrently. No longer will we be forced to choose between an important community meeting and a class for 5th graders on owls. Just imagine it!

The Jamestown S'Klallam Tribe recently purchased 4.5 acres east of the Center where we plan to build a new entry out of the floodplain. Work on the parking lot will start in 2018.

PROJECT PHASES

Purchase Property	2016
New Entrance & Parking	2018
Building Expansion*	2019
Remodel Current Building*	2020

* Dependent on meeting our overall $2.9M funding goal

For information, funding progress, campaign video, and to donate:

www.dungenessrivercenter.org

Inquiries, please contact:

Powell Jones

Director, 360-681-4076
 rcoffice@olympus.net

Annette Hanson

Capital Campaign Chair, 360-670-6774
 annette_hanson@msn.com

Contributions to the Dungeness River Audubon Center, a 501(c)3 non-profit (Federal EIN 91-1632949), are tax deductible to the extent of the law.

Photo credit: Sue Chickman

Invest Now for the Future